INTRODUCTION

Siragusa, J. This prisoner civil rights action is before the Court on Defendants' motion for summary judgment filed on March 31, 2015, ECF No. 9. For the reasons stated below, Defendants' application is granted.

<sup>1</sup> The spelling of this defendant's name is incorrect and should be "Hawley." See Hawley Decl., Mar. 31, 2015, ECF No. 9-5.

BACKGROUND

Pursuant to the local rules, Defendants filed a statement of fact, and served Plaintiff with a copy, as well as with a notice advising Plaintiff of the need to respond to the statement of facts. The statement advised Plaintiff using this language:

Any party moving for summary judgment against a party proceeding pro se shall serve and file as a separate document, together with the papers in support of the motion, a "Notice to Pro Se Litigant Opposing Motion For Summary Judgment: in the form indicated below. Where the pro se party is not the plaintiff, the movant shall amend the form notice as necessary to reflect that fact.

Notice to Pro Se Litigant Opposing Motion For Summary Judgment

Plaintiff is hereby advised that the defendant has asked the Court to decide this case without a trial based on written materials, including affidavits, submitted in support of the motion. THE CLAIMS PLAINTIFF ASSERTS IN HIS/HER COMPLAINT MAY BE DISMISSED WITHOUT A TRIAL IF HE/SHE DOES NOT RESPOND TO THIS MOTION by filing his/her own sworn affidavits or other papers as required by Rule 56(e). An affidavit is a sworn statement of fact based on personal knowledge that would be admissible in evidence at trial.

In short, Rule 56 provides that plaintiff may NOT oppose summary judgment simply by relying upon the allegations in the complaint. Rather, plaintiff must submit evidence, such as witness statements or documents countering the facts asserted by the defendant and raising issues of fact for trial. Any witness statements which may include plaintiff's own statements, must be in the form of affidavits. Plaintiff may file and serve affidavits that were prepared specifically in response to defendant's motion for summary judgment.

Any issue of fact that plaintiff wishes to raise in opposition to the motion for summary judgment must be supported by affidavits or by other documentary evidence contradicting the facts asserted by defendant. If plaintiff does not respond to the motion for summary judgment on time with affidavits or documentary evidence contradicting the facts asserted by defendant, the Court may accept defendant's factual assertions as true. Judgment may then be entered in defendant's favor without a trial. Pursuant to Rule 7.1(e) and 56.1 of the Local Rules of Civil Procedure for the Western District of New York, plaintiff is required to file and serve the following papers in opposition to the motion: (1) a memorandum of law containing relevant factual and legal argument; (2) one or more affidavits in opposition to the motion; and (3) a separate, short, and concise statement of the material facts as to which plaintiff contends there exists a genuine issue to be tried followed by citation to admissible evidence.

In the absence of such a statement by plaintiff, all material facts set forth in defendant's statement of material facts not in dispute will be deemed admitted. A copy of the Local Rules to which reference has been made may be obtained from the Clerk's Office of the Court.

If plaintiff has any questions, he/she may direct them to the Pro Se Office. Plaintiff must file and serve any supplemental affidavits or materials in opposition to defendant's motion no later than the date they are due as provided in Rule 56.1(e) of the Local Rules of Civil Procedure for the Western District of New York.

Def.s' Rule 56.2 Notice to Pro Se Litigants Opposing Summary Judgment, Mar. 31, 2015, ECF No. 9-1. The Court issued a motion scheduling order directing that Plaintiff respond to the motion by May 5, 2015, and set July 30, 2015, as the date for oral argument. To date, Plaintiff has not responded to the statement of facts. The Second Circuit held in Glazer v. Formica Corp., 964 F.2d 149 (2nd Cir. 1992) that,

When a party has moved for summary judgment on the basis of asserted facts supported as required by Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(e) and has, in accordance with local court rules, served a concise statement of the material facts as to which it contends there exist no genuine issues to be tried, those facts will be deemed admitted unless properly controverted by the nonmoving party.

Id. at 154. Since Plaintiff has not responded, the Court deems the assertions of fact<sup>2</sup> in Defendants' statement admitted for the purposes of this motion.

American Cyanamid Co.*, 172 F.3d 192, 198 (2d Cir.1999) (emphasis added). However, nothing in the Federal Rules or the Local Rules of this District requires a court to strike such material. See Sauerhaft v. Board of Educ. of the Hastings-on-Hudson Union Free Sch. Dist., 05 Civ. 09087(PGG), 2009 WL 1576467, at *7–8, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 46196, at *29 (S.D.N.Y. June 2, 2009). Plaintiff's complaint, filed on December 16, 2013, ECF No. 1, contained claims of excessive force, failure to protect, retaliation, and lack of medical care. The Court discussed the nature of the claims in its initial order:

Plaintiff alleges that on December 30, 2010, he was assaulted by corrections officers at Attica, suffering serious injury. He states that his nose was broken in the incident and surgery was then required to repair the damage. Plaintiff also states that prior to the assault, he had been threatened for testifying at another inmate's hearing against officer Defendant John Doe 1. Plaintiff states that he was assaulted in retaliation for his testimony at the hearing.

Plaintiff identifies his legal claims as breach of duty to protect, retaliation, and failure to administer adequate medical care. A review of Plaintiffs allegations indicate he is also alleging a claim for use of excessive force. . . .

Decision and Order 3, Jun. 16, 2014, ECF No. 3. After screening, the Court permitted the following causes of action to proceed: (1) Plaintiff's claim of excessive force against defendants Officer Ziolkowski, Officer Brun, Officer Fitch, Sgt. John Doe 2, and John Does 1, 3, 4, 5, and 6; (2) Plaintiff's medical care claim against defendants Donna Bonning (Jane Doe 1), Nurse Jane Doe 2, and Nurse Hawley; (3) Plaintiff's retaliation claim against defendant John Doe 1. The Court dismissed Plaintiff's failure to protect claim without prejudice, and dismissed his retaliation claims against all but John Doe 1.

STANDARDS OF LAW

Summary Judgment

Summary judgment may not be granted unless "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). A party seeking summary judgment bears the burden of establishing that no genuine issue of material fact exists. See Adickes v. S.H. Kress & Co., 398 U.S. 144, 157 (1970). “For the court to grant summary judgment, the court must conclude--without resolving any fact disputes--that the movant ‘must prevail as a matter of law.’” 11 Moore’s Federal Practice § 56.21 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.) (quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 250 (1986)). “In moving for summary judgment against a party who will bear the ultimate burden of proof at trial, the movant may satisfy this burden by pointing to an absence of evidence to support an essential element of the nonmoving party’s claim.” Gummo v. Village of Depew, 75 F.3d 98, 107 (2d Cir. 1996) (citing Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 322-23 (1986)), cert. denied, 517 U.S. 1190 (1996).

The burden then shifts to the non-moving party to demonstrate specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial. Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c); Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 250 (1986). To do this, the non-moving party must present evidence sufficient to support a jury verdict in its favor. Anderson, 477 U.S. at 249. “[F]actual issues created solely by an affidavit crafted to oppose a summary judgment motion are not ‘genuine’ issues for trial.” Hayes v. N.Y. City Dep’t of Corr., 84 F.3d 614, 619 (2d Cir. 1996). Summary judgment is appropriate only where, “after drawing all reasonable inferences in favor of the party against whom summary judgment is sought, no reasonable trier of fact could find in favor of the non-moving party.” Leon v. Murphy, 988 F.2d 303, 308 (2d Cir. 1993).

The parties may only carry their respective burdens by producing evidentiary proof in admissible form. Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c)(1)(B). The underlying facts contained in affidavits, attached exhibits, and depositions, must be viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. U.S. v. Diebold, Inc., 369 U.S. 654, 655 (1962). Moreover, since Plaintiff is proceeding pro se, the Court is required to construe his submissions liberally, “to raise the strongest arguments that they suggest.” Burgos v. Hopkins, 14 F.3d 787, 790 (2d Cir. 1994).

ANALYSIS

Official Capacity Claims

Plaintiff brought his claims against Defendants in both their official and individual capacities. Compl. 3–4.<sup>3</sup> His complaint seeks money damages. Id. 19. The Supreme Court in [case] held that:

Personal-capacity suits seek to impose personal liability upon a government official for actions he takes under color of state law. See, e.g., Scheuer v. Rhodes, 416 U.S. 232, 237–238, 94 S. Ct. 1683, 1686–1687, 40 L.Ed.2d 90 (1974). Official-capacity suits, in contrast, “generally represent only another way of pleading an action against an entity of which an officer is an agent.” Monell v. New York City Dept. of Social Services, 436 U.S. 658, 690, n. 55, 98 S. Ct. 2018, 2035, n. 55, 56 L.Ed.2d 611 (1978).

Kentucky v. Graham, 473 U.S. 159, 165-66 (1985).

In this case, the State of New York is the government agency by which each defendant was employed when allegedly depriving Plaintiff of his constitutional rights. Consequently, Plaintiff’s attempt to sue each defendant in his or her official capacity is an attempt to sue the State of New York. The Eleventh Amendment to the Constitution reads as follows: “The Judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by Citizens of another State, or by Citizens or Subjects of any Foreign State.” The Supreme Court has held that, “absent waiver by the State or valid congressional override, the Eleventh Amendment bars a damages action against a State in federal court.” Graham, 473 U.S. at 169 (citations and footnote omitted). This lawsuit is brought pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983. By enacting § 1983, Congress did not override a state’s Eleventh Amendment immunity. Will v. Michigan Dep’t of State Police, 491 U.S. 58, 66 (1989). Consequently, Plaintiff’s claims against Defendants in their official capacities must be dismissed.

Plaintiff’s Medical Claims

The Complaint purports to state an Eighth Amendment “deliberate indifference” medical claim, and the law concerning such claims is clear:

In order to establish an Eighth Amendment claim arising out of inadequate medical care, a prisoner must prove deliberate indifference to his serious medical needs. This standard incorporates both objective and subjective elements. The objective ‘medical need’ element measures the severity of the alleged deprivation, while the subjective ‘deliberate indifference’ element ensures that the defendant prison official acted with a sufficiently culpable state of mind.

Because the Eighth Amendment is not a vehicle for bringing medical malpractice claims, nor a substitute for state tort law, not every lapse in prison medical care will rise to the level of a constitutional violation. [T]he Supreme Court [has] explained that the Eighth Amendment’s prohibition on cruel and unusual punishments encompasses the deliberate failure to treat a prisoner’s serious illness or injury resulting in the infliction of unnecessary pain and suffering. Because society does not expect that prisoners will have unqualified access to health care, a prisoner must first make this threshold showing of serious illness or injury in order to state an Eighth Amendment claim for denial of medical care. Similarly, a prisoner must demonstrate more than an inadvertent failure to provide adequate medical care by prison officials to successfully establish Eighth Amendment liability. An official acts with the requisite deliberate indifference when that official knows of and disregards an excessive risk to inmate health or safety, a state of mind equivalent to the familiar standard of 'recklessness' as used in criminal law.

Smith v. Carpenter, 316 F.3d 178, 183-84 (2d Cir.2003) (citations and internal quotations omitted).

In his complaint, Plaintiff complained about the lack of treatment for the injury to his nose, allegedly broken when one of the defendants assaulted him. The relevant allegations in his complaint are as follows:

14. In the facility E.R. where two female nurses, Jane Doe 1 & 2, did not attend proper medical attention but vital signs and not attending my medical need, nor reporting anything. I told them the situation i.e. that taking any consideration to check my nose which I stated to them I had surgery for deviated septum. They wrote other (see copies of med report) report related to bleeding. No ex-ray where [sic] done on my face to see if anything was in danger.

15. The bruises on my body were never checked nor reported in paper. The blood was cleaned off to make it look good in camera [sic] and was [I] was given asprin [sic] for pain. It did not help. I was then sent to SHU, my clouths [sic] were removed and dumped in the garbage.

16. I continued to complained [sic] while I was in SHU. Requested to see nurse to request a doctor to request for a specialist going by procedures. Then wrote to the nurse administrator requesting the above mention respectfully. When I did both doctor & specialist sawed [sic] I had nothing wrong. But yet I had surgery for the (trauma) attack by Officer Ziolkowski. I was moved about 30 days later to Southport Correctional Facility. After all my complaints with problems sleeping & pain finally doctors in Southport C.F. sent me to a specialist in Albany Medical Center (see medical report to describe my undergoing surgery). I had part of piece of my rib cartilage [sic] removed to place it in my nose. I went to lots of pain for recovery, especially the attack official did to me. Till this day I'm still complaining of complications & requesting for a specialist to analyse [sic] me.

17. On January 2nd 2011 plaintiff requested to be seen by nurse complaining of my nose bleed & pain. That morning nurse Hewley [sic] came, plaintiff explained of complication of nose bleed, lack of sleep, pain, pressure on eyes & headache. Plaintiff requested to be seen by doctors & a pain reliever as well as medication for dry skin & skab [sic] wounds, & dry lip. Defendant walked away stating "I'm not putting you to see a doctor" & ignored my request.

Compl. at 14–15. In her declaration, Donna Bonning, R.N. ("Bonning") asserts that she provided proper care to Plaintiff after the alleged assault of December 30, 2010. Bonning examined Plaintiff at Attica's emergency room after the use of force and listened to his medical complaint. Bonning Decl. ¶¶ 8–17, Mar. 31, 2015, ECF No. 9-4. She noted drying blood on his nose and around his mouth, but “saw no evidence of ecchymosis (bruising) or erythema (redness) on any open area.” Id. ¶¶ 18 & 19. She relates that she did not see evidence of a broken nose, nor did Plaintiff appear to be in extreme pain. Id. ¶¶ 23 & 27. At the time of the examination, Plaintiff did not complain of pain or about his breathing. Id. ¶ 28. Bonning noted that Plaintiff told her he had a history of rhinoplasty. Id. ¶ 34.

The medical records attached to Bonning's declaration show that defendant Vance Hawley (“Hawley”) cleared Plaintiff for admission to SHU on December 30, 2010, and that Plaintiff was taking Naprosyn, which she noted that the pharmacy would refill that day. An entry dated December 31, 2010, showed that Hawley saw Plaintiff for his complaints of pain and ordered him to continue taking Naprosyn. Hawley also noted that on January 2, 2010 (the date written on the report, but is probably January 2, 2011) he saw Plaintiff for complaints of pain and told him that he should expect to feel pain after the use of force incident, and ordered him to take the Naprosyn for pain. On January 12, 2011, Plaintiff was seen by a physician's assistant who examined Plaintiff's nose, noted it was slightly deviated to the left, but noted also that Plaintiff showed no acute distress, that his nose was not tender to the touch, and had no bony abnormality or swelling. The physician's assistant did noted tenderness in Plaintiff's sinuses, and diagnosed acute sinusitis, and then ordered an x-ray of his nose. Hawley Decl. ¶¶ 42–50, Mar. 31, 2015, ECF No. 9-5.

Disagreements over treatment do not rise to the level of a Constitutional violation. See, Chance v. Armstrong, 143 F.3d 698, 703 (2d Cir.1998) (“It is well-established that mere disagreement over the proper treatment does not create a constitutional claim.”). Similarly, negligence constituting medical malpractice, without more, will not establish a constitutional claim. Id. (citation omitted).

In this context, disagreements over treatment include disagreements over whether the inmate needs to be treated by a specialist. See, Sonds v. St. Barnabas Hosp. Correctional Health Services, 151 F.Supp.2d 303, 312 (S.D.N.Y. 2001) (“[D]isagreements over medications, diagnostic techniques (e.g., the need for X-rays), forms of treatment, or the need for specialists or the timing of their intervention, are not adequate grounds for a Section 1983 claim. These issues implicate medical judgments and, at worst, negligence amounting to medical malpractice, but not the Eighth Amendment.”) (citation omitted).

Defendants uncontroverted evidence establishes that they are entitled to judgment. Plaintiff has failed to raise a material issue of fact and the evidentiary proof before the Court leads only to the conclusion that defendants Bonning (Jane Doe 1), and Hawley, were not deliberately indifferent to Plaintiff’s serious medical need.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons above, Defendants’ application for summary judgment is granted. The claims against all parties in their official capacities are dismissed. Defendants Bonning and Hawley are entitled to judgment on Plaintiff’s deliberate indifference claims, and the Clerk is directed to enter judgment for both.

The following claims may go forward: (1) Plaintiff's claims of excessive force against defendants Officer Ziolkowski, Officer Brun, Officer Fitch, Sgt. John Doe 2, and John Does 1, 3, 4, 5, and 6; (2) Plaintiff's medical care claim against defendants Nurse Jane Doe 2; and (3) Plaintiff's retaliation claim against defendant John Doe 1.
